Industry Mobilization Director

Are you a sales and marketing professional looking for a new challenge that is different and exciting? Do you enjoy thinking strategically, working against long-term goals, helping others transition their skill sets, juggling multiple tasks and managing numerous high-level relationships? Can you motivate volunteers to achieve new goals and help strengthen an entire industry? Do you understand how to reach key project decision makers? Are you ready to step out of your comfort zone and learn more about structural steel than you ever dreamed there was to learn?

The structural steel industry is looking for the right person to take the lead in mobilizing industry sales resources to focus their talents on making structural steel the material of choice. This will involve training and motivating sales professionals to look outside of their typical customer base and develop upstream relationships with owners, general contractors, architects and engineers.

The American Institute of Steel Construction, founded in 1921 as the trade association for the structural steel industry, is pioneering a new Industry Mobilization initiative and looking for a seasoned sales and marketing professional as initiative director. The ideal candidate will have a bachelor's degree with at least 10 years of experience marketing solutions to building owners, developers, architects, general contractors and structural engineers. An exposure to structural engineering and the use of structural steel in construction would be beneficial. Strong communication, teaching and computer skills are a must. The position is Chicago-based but will require significant travel throughout the United States.

To submit your resume for consideration or to request a full job description, please contact John Cross, Vice President, AISC Marketing LLC at cross@aisc.org.
